

NPCC Alumni Overnight Camp at Pulau Ubin

Pulau Ubin is in essence, the last 'kampung' (village) in Singapore. A stroll through Ubin takes you back to Singapore in the 1960's with the simpler pleasures of life. Pulau Ubin is a great trip spent walking or pedaling through rustic roads under swaying coconut palms, exploring shady trails in overgrown rubber plantations, checking out secluded beaches and flourishing mangroves. On Pulau Ubin, the food tastes great, air is fresher and sights and sounds so soothing to the soul.

The adventure begins on the bumboat trip leaving from Changi Jetty. Upon arrival, there are LOTS to do... Choose from eating, cycling, walking and other fun activities or join a guided tour. Ubin is also full of interesting wildlife and plants.

Major Ubin sights and sites ...

Ubin Jetty: Your first stop with a good view of Ubin Town, Chek Jawa to the east. Stop by the NParks Info Kiosk at the exit to get a free pamphlet of Ubin and advice from the friendly NParks officers on how to spend your time on Ubin.

Ubin Town: has eating places, bicycle rental shops and provision shops that stock almost everything you could possibly need on your trip. Highlights include a wayang stage with a colourful history and a little shrine.

Heading North: farms, fruit plantations, kampongs, rubber plantation being taken over by the forest to the two beaches on the northern shore of Ubin.

Heading East: sensory trail, mangroves before rejoining the northern route.

Heading West: quarry views, bukit puaka, mangroves and the Thai Temple.

Ubin is full of history and a place of legends, with a fascinating geography and history. The island was an agricultural paradise, then a major quarry. It also had its role during World War II.
